Help Your Incoming Students Explore Their Local Housing Options

LSAC is excited to announce a new collaboration with VeryApt, a company that works with admission teams from 230 university graduate programs — including 75 law schools — across the country. This collaboration helps prelaw students understand a school's local community so they can see what life will be like, create accurate budgets, and get excited about law school.

VeryApt provides a hands-off approach for admission teams while assisting prelaw and incoming students with their housing needs. The housing guide showcases top apartments, common neighborhoods, and unique data points — all based on feedback from current students gathered through anonymous housing surveys administered by VeryApt. The housing guide data will be available to prelaw students on LawHub/Law School Transparency.
